Christmas Lights On

As a token that Appomattox is "ready for Christmas," the Christmas lights are up and in operation in downtown. Local volunteer firemen and town employees got the annual Christmas lighting up this week, and each night now through the holiday season, downtown Appomattox will match the holiday spirit with its decorations. Most business places are also displaying special window and store displays appropriate to the season, and some homes are setting up their decorations.

Centennial License Tag

By next summer, it is hoped, a substantial number of the automobiles in the Consommwealth will be rolling advertisements for Virginia's Civil War Centennial.

Samples of a "license-type" metal tag were mailed by the Virginia Civil War Commission today to all officially appointed local committees in the state. The tags, with blue lettering on a Confederate gray background, feature a Civil War cannon similar to the one on the Commission's official emblem.

It is proposed that the tags will be supplied to the committees at cost, to be resold by them for $1 each. Profits would be used to help defray the cost of local Centennial activities.

Vepco Pays Big Tax Bill

C. A. Smith, Southside District Manager of the Virginia Electric and Power Company, has presented real estate and personal property tax checks totaling $216,930 to county and city treasurers in Vepco's Southside District.

The largest check of $40,782, went to Mecklenburg County treasurer Otis B. Crowder. Appomattox received $4,472.

Vepco's total real estate and personal property tax bill for all cities and counties in Virginia in which the company operates totals $5,400,000 for 1960, as compared to $4,900,000 in 1959.

In addition, Vepco also paid state taxes of $5,913,336 earlier in the year. Vepco is the state's largest corporate taxpayer. Federal, state and local taxes over the entire Vepco system amounted to over $35,600,000 last year.

Wet Leaf Hurts Market

No Government price support will be offered this year on Virginia fire-cured tobacco grading "wet."

The U. S. Department of Agriculture made that announcement in early November to encourage growers to offer tobacco of maximum handling quality and leaf that is acceptable to buyers.

This is the second year in which the Department has called the dark tobacco growers to the situation facing them. They point to the possibility of the Virginia type 21 leaning out to the competing types of fire-cured tobacco, types 22 and 23, produced in Kentucky and Tennessee.

For years Virginia growers have brought their dark leaf to market with high moisture content, averaging perhaps 35 per cent of total weight. In redrying and packing much of the moisture is lost, but the end result is that buyers get less per hundred pounds from the Virginia type 21 on a dried and packed basis than they get from competing types.

Prior to 1959, the Virginia type 21 tobacco returned buyers only about 70 pounds for each 100 pounds purchased. This was improved to 82 pounds in 1959. But the fact remains that buyers get about 92 pounds on a dried and packed basis for each 100 pounds of competing types 22 and 23.

It's hard to believe, but this is the last month of the year. Have you made good use of the first eleven months?

Meter Posts Gone From Main Street

The picture of parking meters on Main Street and Downtown Appomattox was erased this week, as town employees pulled out the metal posts to which the meters had been attached. The meters themselves had been removd months ago. But the metal posts were still there, and the shopping public kept wondering: maybe they will put the meters back! But the Town then ordered the metal posts out, and now Main Street looks like its old self. Come on out to Appomattox: you are welcome!

Court Has No Indictments

The Circuit Court of Appomattox County is in session, but has no indictments to try. The grand jury met, but no indictments were forthcoming. A docket was set up of a few appeal cases from the lower court. All of these have been heard save for one, which is set for Friday.

Students Seek Trash Elimination

S. C. A.

The Student Council of A. H. S. is trying to remedy the problem of the excess trash on the school grounds. The first effort was a poster campaign. These posters served as reminders to the students to keep trash out of the halls and off the grounds. The second method of solving this problem is a "monitor system." The monitors are stationed in different sections of the building to urge students not to litter the halls with paper.

The S. C. A. Council is working diligently to solve this problem and with the help of the students it is hoped that the school building and premises may be free of trash.

Freedom is a gift from the past, but it is not at all certain that it will be a legacy of the future.

A. H. S. Plays Rustburg Here

The Appomattox High School Rebels, who last Friday night defeated Dan River High School here in the opening game of the current basketball season, take on a highly touted Rustburg five at Appomattox Friday, dec. 9, at 7:00 P. M.

The Rustburg boys led by long and lanky Barry Keesee, holder of a twenty-eight point average for the first two games, will be out to avenge the late season loss inflicted upon them last year by the Appomattox quintet. Appomattox will be out to make it two in a row.

Appomattox was out re-bounded by the Dan River squad last Friday night, but some fine shooting by Freddie Wingfield, Austin Pankey and Dickie Guill brought the home team to a 44 - 36 hard-fought victory. Dan River's top scorer was George Murphy, with twenty points to his credit.

Repair Local Road Lines

Town and State Highway Dept. workmen have been occupied with repairs to Town of Appomattox street shoulders, and in repainting traffic lane white markings. Excellent maintainance work in the field is an asset to the community.

Town Seeks An Additional Water Source

In order to provide for the needs of a growing community, the Town of Appomattox has authorized the drilling of an additional well, to add to the town's water supply.

At present, the town has two water tanks, and is using three wells. This has proved adequate, but in dry seasons, and with growth of the community and expanded use, the Town felt it advisable to add another well to its water supply.

At a special meeting of the Town Council this week, an agreement was reached with the Moore Well Drilling Co., of Rustburg, to begin at once the drilling of a new well. The new well will be located in the general area of one of the present wells in use, between Route 460 and the N&W Railway on the north side, and a full study by state geologists assures the Town that water is available in this area, and without interfering with the well in that area now in use.

Some additional feeder piping may be needed, but the supply expected, can be tapped toward the reservoir tanks without appectable capital outlay.

There is every hope that this additional well will provide for all foreseeable water needs of the community, and that Appomattox can promise home-owners and business and industry all the needed water supply.

Art Display Exhibit Ends

On display in the halls of the Appomattox Elementary School is an exhibit of Masterpieces of Religious Art, on loan from the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts. This exhibit has been brought to Appomattox by the Appomattox Junior Woman's Club.

The works of such famous painters as Botticelli, da Vinci, Picasso, Raphael, Fra Angelico, Giotto, Fra Filippo Lippi, Crevelli, Murillo, and Van Eyck are included. This exhibit appropriately follows the visit of the Artmobile of Virginia, which was in Appomattox for a week in November, and displayed Italian art of the Renaissance.

To fully appreciate the display one must be aware of the fact that throughout the Middle Ages the Church was a major patron of the arts. Few of the faithful could read, and the church relied on the Arts to visually interpret the stories of the Bible and the legends of the Saints.

Medieval artists were usually monks or anonymous craftsmen who followed traditional representations for their own works. Changes in religious subject matter rarely occurred and depended more on the church doctrine than on the individual artistic taste. Renaissance artists from the 14th to the 17th Centuries adopted a more personal approach to religious art.

Both Italian and Renaissance artists reflected contemporary interests in the ancient classical world and in new scientific developments. Biblical figures were shown in contemporary dress and background depicted local landscapes. Although more personal in concept, these scenes retained their religious significance.
